Description

Business and Professional People for the Public Interest has served the Chicago region as an independent public interest law and policy center addressing compelling issues of social justice and quality of life for nearly a half century.

BPI lawyers and policy specialists use legal and policy research, advocacy, organizing, litigation and collaboration with nonprofit, business, community and governmental organizations to accomplish its mission. Today BPI’s work is focused on housing and community development, public education, and political reform. Legal externs work under the direct supervision of BPI attorneys. They research legal and policy issues, write memoranda, briefs and policy papers, develop legal strategies and participate in various aspects of our advocacy work—examples of which are described below.

As counsel for the plaintiffs in the landmark Gautreaux litigation, BPI is advocating for public housing residents on many fronts, and is deeply engaged in the Chicago Housing Authority’s multi-billion dollar effort to transform the City’s isolated, crumbling public housing projects into mixed-income communities. Among other things, BPI plays a central role creating and implementing plans for redeveloped communities and working to ensure that public housing residents receive the supportive services they need. Through Gautreaux, BPI has helped provide better housing and enhanced life opportunities for more than 25,000 victims of the CHA’s racial discrimination.

BPI is also recognized nationally for its affordable housing advocacy. BPI has spearheaded efforts to increase the supply of affordable housing in Illinois and to broadly disperse such housing throughout the region, including in communities with good jobs and schools, but little or no affordable housing.

Description
Guided by its mission to work with individuals, communities, courts, and other institutions to manage and resolve conflict, the Center for Conflict Resolution (CCR) is a Chicago-based non-profit organization that provides mediation and training services.

Since its founding in 1979, CCR has emerged as one of the nation’s premier providers of mediation services — as well as a superb educational and training ground for mediators.

Every year, knowledgeable, dedicated volunteers and staff mediate pro bono cases with more than 4,000 people, train hundreds of new mediators, facilitate meetings and work with dozens of businesses, government agencies and organizations to create custom-designed dispute resolution systems and training programs.

Legal externs begin by completing a 40-hour mediation training program and obtaining a certification from the CCR staff. Once certified, externs conduct mediations at Cook County courthouses and occasionally in the CCR offices. Courthouse mediations involve primarily small claims and landlord/tenant cases. Mediations in the CCR offices involve a wider variety of matters. Externs, in addition to conducting mediations in courthouses, supervise small teams of volunteer mediators, including other law students, who are performing courthouse mediations. Prior mediation training, such as through the Applied Mediation program, is helpful but not required.

Description
The Board of Education of the City of Chicago has extern opportunities for the Fall 2016 semester in its Law Department's Labor Relations Unit. Their new location is 1 North Dearborn Street, 9th Floor, Chicago, Illinois 60602.

The Labor Relations Unit is responsible for handling traditional labor law cases and employee discipline matters.

Interns/Externs would concentrate their work in prosecuting employee dismissal cases. With the oversight of attorneys, externs would be responsible for:
(1) Gathering background information;
(2) Contacting the client and witnesses to prepare them for their testimony; and
(3) Presenting opening and closing statements, direct and cross-examination of witnesses, and arguing orally before an administrative hearing officer.

Many law students have found this direct hands-on experience challenging and rewarding. Additionally, if desired, externs will have the opportunity to handle traditional labor law matters as well. The site prefers that externs be either in 2L or 3L students.

Description
Establishment of the Trust Fund was sparked by demolition of single room occupancy hotels on the west end of the City, at the corner of Madison and Jefferson streets, to create the Presidential Towers. Developers of Presidential Towers were criticized by housing activists because of the lack of low and moderate units in the proposal.

In the late 1980's, a coalition formed of stakeholders representing the Chicago Coalition for the Homeless, the Statewide Housing Action Coalition, the Balanced Growth Coalition, and Chicago 1992 Committee. With support of Mayor Harold Washington, the group sought to establish a city trust fund utilizing funds to be donated by the developer in lieu of the creation of on-site affordable units. Seeking to refinance their loan, developers met with the city and the coalition in January 1987. It was agreed that the developers would pay $5 million into a fund that would officially become the Trust Fund two years later.

The Trust Fund began its first and largest program, the Rental Subsidy Program, in 1990. Its focus then and now is to provide annual subsidies to rental properties to reduce rents for citizens who make less than 30 percent of area median income (AMI). The program assists a wide array of household types, including low-income wage earners, homeless, seniors, single parent households, large families and people with disabilities.

Over the years, the Trust Fund has stayed true to its mission to provide affordable housing to Chicago’s low-income citizens. It strives to develop new partnerships and opportunities to create opportunities for affordable housing for those at-risk of homelessness.

Description
The Law Department serves the Mayor, the City Departments, Boards and Commissioners and the City Council as they establish and administer policies and programs to benefit Chicago residents. The Law Department’s clients are the City's more than forty Departments, as well as its agencies and officials.

The Department employs approximately 250 lawyers that handle litigation, transactional, and legislative projects, and enforce the Municipal Code.

Few law offices can match the breadth of this practice. They litigate cases in every federal, state, and administrative courtroom in the City. Their transactional lawyers routinely work in conjunction with colleagues in the Department’s legislative section on complex deals involving large-scale public projects. Their service takes many forms, from helping communities through effective ordinance preparation and enforcement, to providing City departments with legal advice.

There are 14 different practice divisions. They offer both transactional and litigation opportunities. A number of divisions allow students to practice with a 711 license. The divisions include:
- Appeals;
- Aviation, Environmental, Regulatory & Contracts;
- Building and License Enforcement;
- Collections, Ownership and Administrative Litigation;
- Constitutional & Commercial Litigation;
- Employment Litigation;
- Federal Civil Rights Litigation;
- Finance & Economic Development;
- Labor;
- Legal Counsel;
- Legal Information and Prosecutions;
- Real Estate;
- Revenue Litigation;
- Torts.

To learn more about the various Divisions within the Department of Law and the work that they handle, please check out the Litigation, Prosecution and Transactional Division links found under “What We Do” at www.cityofchicago.org/dol.

A few divisions, including Employment Litigation, Federal Civil Rights Litigation and Torts, offer the possibility of using a student practice license (711 license).

Application Process
Students apply directly to the City of Chicago Department of Law. To apply for one of these volunteer programs, please visit www.cityofchicago.org/dol (select the Externship, Post-Graduate Fellowship and Volunteer Programs link under "Supporting Information") and then click the desired volunteer program for further information, including the application process. Applicants are requested to submit: Cover letter, indicating that your application is for the Externship Program, and stating your division preference, and specifying that the ND Law in Chicago externship requires 32 field-work hours/week for the semester; Resume; Law School Transcript; One writing sample (see Writing Sample Policy posted on website).

Application Deadline
This site has no formal deadline for applying. In no case should students apply less than 60 days before the start of the semester.

The City of Chicago Department of Law has the ability to accommodate a large number of externs. Some smaller divisions tend to fill up more quickly than others. Even though there is no formal application deadline, students are encouraged to apply early in order to maximize the chance of obtaining a position in the student’s first choice of divisions.

The City typically makes decisions close to the beginning of the semester in which the student wishes to participate. Students should be aware that while NDLS students have often been placed with the City, they are likely to receive notice fairly late in the NDLS process.

Description
There are two divisions: Adult Guardianship, and Juvenile and Domestic Relations.

The Adult Guardianship Division offers a unique opportunity to law students. Attorneys in the Adult Guardianship Division represent the Public Guardian in his capacity as guardian of disabled adults. While attorneys primarily handle guardianship matters in the Probate Division of the Circuit Court of Cook County, they often find themselves representing the Public Guardian on behalf of the disabled adults in other divisions such as Municipal, Chancery, and Domestic Relations, to name a few. As law clerks in the Adult Guardianship Division, students assist attorneys by conducting legal research, drafting memoranda, motions and other legal pleadings, and preparing for trial or other hearings. Student law clerks are also offered the unique opportunity to accompany attorneys in the field to conduct real property inspections, visit with disabled adults at their residence, and attend meetings with other professionals working with the disabled adults. A law student with a license under Supreme Court Rule 711 may appear before the court supervised by one of the Adult Guardianship attorneys. All student law clerks are provided in-house training at the start of the clerkship and are mentored by the attorneys. All clerkships are unpaid.

TO APPLY: Interested law students should submit a cover letter (specify that the ND Law in Chicago program requires 32 fieldwork hours/week) and resume to: Office of the Cook County Public Guardian, Attn: Legal Internship Coordinator, 69 West Washington Street, Suite 700, Chicago, Illinois 60602.

The Juvenile and Domestic Relations Division welcome law clerks throughout the year to assist in representing clients from birth to age 21. Volunteers, grant recipients and students working for credit are encouraged to apply. The law clerk program is designed to provide students with practical experience. Description
The U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) is responsible for enforcing federal laws that make it illegal to discriminate against a job applicant or an employee because of the person's race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy), national origin, age (40 or older), disability or genetic information. It is also illegal to discriminate against a person because the person complained about discrimination, filed a charge of discrimination, or participated in an employment discrimination investigation or lawsuit.

Interns in the Legal Unit will work with Trial Attorneys engaged in litigation against employers for violations of Title VII, the ADEA and the ADA. This work will mostly be legal research and writing. Students may assist in interviewing claimants or witnesses, help prepare discovery responses based on those interviews, or help prepare claimants or witnesses for deposition. Occasionally, students may be asked to abstract depositions and develop fact responses for defending against motions for summary judgment. Students may also work with Administrative Judges hearing charges of discrimination brought by federal employees or with enforcement staff who are involved in investigating Charges of Discrimination.

In addition to the legal assignments, interns are given the opportunity to observe different aspects of agency functions. Depending on availability and schedules, students will sit it on intake interviews, mediation sessions, Administrative Hearings, court hearings on routine and contested matters, and, sometimes, trials. Students will also have ample opportunities to observe depositions. When possible, students are encouraged to observe activities that build upon work they have performed. For example, if a student has provided research on a motion, they are encouraged to attend court when the motion is heard. If they have interviewed witnesses on a case, they are encouraged to then sit in on depositions related to that case. The District works to ensure that students are given a wide variety of work and the opportunity to interact with as many different attorneys and staff members as possible.

Students are usually assigned a mentor, though the decision to make use of a mentor rests solely with the student.

Description
Equip for Equality, Inc. is a private nonprofit, statewide organization whose mission is to advance the human and civil rights of people with disabilities by promoting the principles of equality, self-determination, and dignity. The five substantive priority areas of Equip for Equality are discrimination, community integration, safety from abuse and neglect, special education and self-determination.

Equip for Equality has a Legal Department that engages in a wide range of services for people with disabilities including information and referral, self-advocacy assistance, legal advice, negotiation, and direct representation. The direct representation includes representation in administrative, state and federal forums. The Legal Department balances the requests for direct legal services with pro-active, impact litigation seeking systemic change.

Equip for Equality also has a Public Policy Department that works to achieve changes in state legislation, public policies, and programs to safeguard individual rights. Program personnel draft and secure passage of state legislation and participate in state regulatory and policy-making processes.

Equip for Equality provides students with a comprehensive legal experience in traditional legal research and writing, as well as significant opportunities in the practical aspects of disability legal and public policy work. The information below describes their three legal teams.

Equip for Equality’s Legal Teams

Abuse Investigation Unit
In 2002, Equip for Equality established the Abuse Investigation Unit to address systemic issues of abuse, neglect and rights violations, including death investigations. The bulk of AIU’s work is done through systemic investigative activity. Systemic investigative activity includes conducting unannounced site visits to public and private facilities to uncover dangerous conditions and practices through observation, interviews and record reviews and to develop recommendations to address the identified problems. Systemic advocacy is provided in response to a variety of problems to ensure that people with disabilities are safe, receiving quality services and that their rights are protected. This advocacy is provided during client interviews and on site in facilities, through informal negotiations and in treatment meetings.

Civil Rights Team
The Civil Rights Team (CRT) focuses on four major legal areas for people with disabilities: anti-discrimination, community integration, self-determination and abuse/neglect. Under anti-discrimination, CRT handles cases in which people with disabilities have been treated differently because of their disabilities in such areas as employment, transportation, voting, state and local government programs, access to private businesses and housing. CRT is currently litigating two class actions on behalf of prisoners – one for people with mental illness and one for people who are deaf. In community integration, CRT works with people with disabilities seeking to live in more integrated settings with the supports they need to be successful. CRT is currently litigating three community integration class actions on this issue. In self-determination, EFE represents people with disabilities to help them achieve their goals and limit any unnecessary restrictions to make choices, particularly within the context of adult guardianship. To complement the Abuse Investigation Unit’s systemic work, CRT handles individual cases of abuse, neglect and financial exploitation, including by securing orders of protection.

Special Education Clinic
Students in Illinois continue to face barriers to receiving a free and appropriate public education in the least restrictive environment as mandated by federal law. These barriers are especially acute because of the limited resources for people with disabilities to secure legal representation. Components of the Special Education Clinic include: 1) A telephone Helpline to provide advice, self-advocacy assistance, information and referrals; 2) An accessible website with special education resources; 3) Special education training seminars for parents and students; 4) Written materials with legal rights information; and 5) Legal representation in selected individual cases through EFE staff and a pro bono network.

Description
FINRA is the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority. FINRA’s mission is to safeguard the investing public against fraud and bad practices. They write and enforce rules and regulations for every brokerage firm and broker in the United States, and examine broker-dealers for compliance with FINRA rules, federal securities laws and rules of the Municipal Securities Rule-making Board. FINRA also educates and informs investors, and resolves security disputes.

While a law degree is not required for the job responsibilities, most of the employees in the department both have a law degree, and are licensed attorneys. This position will especially be more appealing to those applicants who desire to work in the securities industry, but those interested in the strict practice of law will find the externship very beneficial.

Job Summary: The Externship Program for the Department of Enforcement is designed for students who have an interest in securities law and regulation. The Extern will assist attorneys and investigative staff to investigate and initiate enforcement actions against FINRA regulated firms and associated individuals (typically, stockbrokers). The Extern, while working under the supervision of an Enforcement attorney, will be given an opportunity to perform all of the tasks undertaken by Enforcement attorneys, including being assigned his or her own cases to resolve.

Externs perform a variety of tasks including legal research and writing and document review, as well as assisting staff to prepare for investigative testimony and hearings. Externs will analyze whether a disciplinary action should be brought against a firm and/or broker, and draft the settlement agreement or Complaint. Externs will also draft the internal memoranda required to obtain approval of the settlement agreement or draft Complaint. Externs may also draft pleadings and digest transcripts. Opportunities to observe on-the-record interviews, settlement negotiations, and hearings are made available to Externs.

Qualifications: A working knowledge of relevant rules and regulations enforced by FINRA would be helpful, as would a working knowledge of securities markets, member firm operations, books and records. However, knowledge of securities law or brokerage regulations is not required. Securities industry experience is a plus, of course. Excellent writing skills, analysis, research skills, attention to detail, and ability to organize and multitask are required. Those interested in litigation are encouraged to apply. Candidate should have effective communication, time management, and organizational skills. He or she should also have the ability to work with others to meet deadlines, and the ability to perform multiple tasks efficiently and accurately.

Description
Levy Restaurants is a company that owns several restaurant locations, including Jake Melnick’s and Spiaggia, and provides food services for large entertainment centers. They provide the food for twenty-three out of thirty NBA stadiums and are in 120 stadiums total. Levy is in most of Chicago’s stadiums, except for the Bears. Their current goal is to get into more college sports stadiums and have a bid for Notre Dame.

Levy’s offices are located at 980 N. Michigan, right above Spiaggia restaurant. They have four lawyers total in the office, and have a fun feel. There is a big shuffleboard in the lobby and a beer station, they have happy hours on Fridays, and dress in jeans all week. They have a big law feel and so it is important that whoever goes there is interested in working at a big law firm.

Levy likes to take on as many interns as possible but they need to be good people who are “street smart”. Their ideal extern would be someone who has worked in hospitality, including as a waiter or bartender. They want someone who is sociable and good at making business decisions. Levy wants externs to be excited about the work that the company does, and place a great deal of importance on the social skills of their externs.

Externs will work on contract negotiation and catering contracts in particular. Externs are often assigned to working with clients on renegotiating the terms of their contract. One of the most exciting parts of the externship is working on joint venture agreements with sports teams. If someone is interested in sports law then this externship would be a great opportunity to start building those connections. Externs will also write summaries of master contracts and collective bargaining agreements. If there is an Equal Employment Opportunity Commission charge in Illinois then externs will gather facts on that. In addition, there is some merger and acquisition work that may get assigned to the externs.

Externs will mainly work with the two junior attorneys, who focus on liquor licensing and smaller contracts. The externs will get to go to happy hours and go the monthly lunch with the whole office in Spiaggia’s private room.

Application Process
Submit a resume and cover letter to Katelynn McBride, Program Director of Public Interest & Chicago Initiatives, at Katelynn.mcbride@nd.edu.

Description
Merieux has an established externship program that continues through academic semester and summer, offering paid externships for the summer positions. This program takes two externs at a time. Merieux is an international network of accredited labs that perform testing for the food and beverage industry. They test whether food is safe to eat, the chemistry of the food, and the caloric components. They ensure compliance with U.S. law and perform auditing for customers. Additionally, they do clinical trial work and ensure that suppliers have high quality products. Merieux is in twenty-two countries and has ninety labs. The major shareholder is the Merieux family, originally connected with Louis Pasteur. They merged with Silicor and have since acquired several other companies located in the U.S., so there is a lot of merger and acquisition work to be done. Merieux has four attorneys in Chicago, including their general counsel, international attorney, U.S. focused attorney, and a part-time attorney. They also have one lawyer in France and one in Brazil. At Merieux externs are taken to meetings and involved in real work. Externs will work on due diligence, writing letters to the seller, closing checklists, financing agreements with the bank, and corporate governance issues. The externship is heavy on mergers and acquisitions and externs work on all acquisition work internationally. Ideally, they like externs to stay for two semesters so that Merieux has one senior extern and one junior extern at a given time.

Description

The Metropolitan Pier and Exposition Authority (MPEA) is a municipal corporation created by the Illinois General Assembly. Its Board of Directors is appointed by the Governor of Illinois and the Mayor of Chicago. The Chairman is selected by the MPEA Board. The MPEA's mission is to attract trade shows, conventions, meetings, expositions and public events to the City of Chicago, and in the process, strengthen the economy of the area.

The MPEA owns two world-class facilities. Located along Chicago’s lakefront, McCormick Place, the largest convention center in North America offers 2.6 million square feet of exhibition space, 173 meeting rooms, the 4,249-seat Arie Crown Theater and one of the largest ballrooms in the world. Historic Navy Pier is also the top-visited tourist and leisure destination in the Midwest. Navy Pier features 50 acres of park areas, gardens, restaurants, retail shops, cruise and charter boat docking, amusement park rides, a Ferris wheel, museums and a convention and meetings facility.

The Authority owns the 1,262-room Hyatt Regency McCormick Place, a Four Diamond, AAA-rated hotel, located on the McCormick Place campus providing on-site convenience for all McCormick Place visitors. A major project for 2016 and beyond is that MPEA is building a new basketball arena/events center and new 1,200 room hotel that will be operated by Marriott as a Marriott Marquis. There are a number of construction and commercial issues, including intellectual property law, that come up in conjunction with these projects.

Ideal for students interested in commercial law from either a transactional or litigation perspective would be happiest here. As MPEA is a municipal corporation, student would get exposure to government as well, but since nearly all of their operations involve working with a private firm, the commercial issues are what really keep them occupied.

Description
NRDC is a member-supported nonprofit organization that uses litigation, legislative and administrative advocacy, science, policy analysis, media, and grassroots organizing to fight for the environment and public health. In addition to Chicago, they have offices in New York, Washington DC, San Francisco, Santa Monica, Montana, and Beijing, China. They work on a wide range of environmental and public health issues, including protection of public lands and wildlife; control of air and water pollution; and promotion of clean energy and energy efficiency. More information about their work and advocacy priorities is available on their website, www.nrdc.org.

Chicago legal interns do legal research and writing to support litigation and policy advocacy, in collaboration with and under the supervision of NRDC lawyers. NRDC’s Chicago-based lawyers work on a range of issues. Specific assignments depend on those lawyers’ immediate priorities and needs. Interns typically work with several lawyers, but a single Chicago-based lawyer is responsible for coordinating assignments and making sure that each intern gets interesting, challenging, and varied work and timely feedback. Legal interns must be able to work at least two full business days a week over the course of an academic term in NRDC’s Chicago office (downtown in the Civic Opera Building, at 20 North Wacker Drive). Full-time interns are welcome. These internships are unpaid, but they work with interns who are in law school to help them claim any available academic credit. Small stipends may be available.

Qualifications: You should be in or entering your second or third year of a J.D. program, in an advanced legal degree (such as an L.L.M.) program, or a recent graduate of such a program. You should have a strong academic record; well-developed writing, research, and interpersonal skills; and a demonstrated interest in and commitment to public service work or environmental and public health issues.

Application Process
Create a profile on NRDC’s OpenHire site at www.nrdc.org/jobs and upload a cover letter, writing sample, resume, law school transcript and list of three references, at least one of whom should be a professional reference. Submit a writing sample that is entirely your own work and that does not reflect edits or inputs from others; drafts are fine. In your cover letter, explain how you learned about the opening, and specify that the ND Law in Chicago externship requires 32 field-work hours/week for the semester. Don’t wait to apply, as they consider applications on a rolling basis, and may not wait until the deadline to interview and extend offers. Only complete applications will be considered. If you run into trouble uploading your application, reach out to Customer Care by dialing 1-866-803-9663. No emails or faxes, please.

Application Deadline
The deadline is April 29, 2016. NDLS students are encouraged to apply as early as possible, however, to ensure that their externship spots are not already taken by students from other schools and to ensure that NDLS students can make necessary logistical arrangements. In no case should students apply less than 60 days before the start of the semester.

Description
Launched in 1985, The Law Project (formerly The Community Economic Development Law Project) is a project of the Chicago Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, Inc., a prominent civil rights organization. The Law Project provides free, expert legal assistance to support community development efforts led by entrepreneurs and nonprofit organizations that generally do not have the resources to pay for legal services.

While legal advice is needed for real estate transactions, for securing tax exemption, starting a new business, entering into contracts, and managing personnel issues, most organizations in low-income neighborhoods cannot afford the high cost of these services. The Law Project fills this gap by linking lawyers from Chicago’s major law firms and in-house corporate legal departments to organizations and entrepreneurs working to build stable communities. Our goal is to ensure that TLP clients receive high quality professional representation. The Law Project strengthens Chicago area communities by providing high-quality, pro bono legal services to community based nonprofits, small businesses and first-time homebuyers. In fulfilling this mission, The Law Project offers transactional attorneys meaningful pro bono opportunities.

In addition to direct legal services programs, The Law Project also provides regular workshops and training on legal issues affecting nonprofit organizations, small businesses entrepreneurs, and first time home buyers. The Law Project does not typically handle disputes or litigation.

Description
The USAO for the Northern District of Illinois is responsible for prosecuting all federal crimes within the district. The Office also represents the United States and its departments and agencies in civil proceedings filed in federal court and in the Seventh Circuit. The primary goals of the Law Student Intern Program are to provide law students with the greatest possible exposure to and participation in federal trial and appellate practice and to obtain excellent legal talent to assist the Office in handling its multitude of cases. For the Spring 2017 semester, the Office is offering intern positions to 13 law students. Students are required to work 16 hours a week for 12 weeks. All intern positions are uncompensated. Interns may not work at another legal job while working as an intern in the USAO.

The work of law student interns includes assisting in all aspects of trial preparation, legal research, writing memoranda of law, drafting pleadings and appellate briefs, assisting in preparation and taking of depositions, assisting in pre-trial conferences and the trials of civil and criminal cases.

Qualifications
Intern positions are only offered to students who are enrolled in law school. Students must be 2L’s or 3L’s by the beginning of the Spring term. Applicants must be U.S. citizens. The Residency Requirement ensures an adequate background investigation can be completed. Due to the sensitive nature of the work performed by the Office, all offers to candidates are conditioned upon the successful completion of a required background investigation. Interns are not permitted to work in a legal capacity – public or private – during the internship.

Application Process
All application packages must be submitted via U.S. mail to the district contact by the deadline. Resume, personal statement reflecting your background and your interest in participating in this program, legal writing sample, three letters of recommendation (preferably legal), and law school transcript (unofficial is acceptable). Recommendation letters, whether or not submitted in sealed envelopes, may be included by the student with the application materials. Please make every effort to include them with the application to avoid delay. First-year (2nd semester) law students must note when their grades will become available. They may be submitted at a later date.

Description
The Office of the Solicitor, Region V, handles most of the U.S. Department of Labor’s trial litigation in the Midwest. The Office is responsible for litigation of statutory and regulatory enforcement actions. These matters are litigated under various statutes that include, but are not limited to, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, and the Mine Safety and Health Act.

A legal extern in our office gains practical legal experience by assisting program counsel and staff attorneys with 1) legal research; 2) developing cases for litigation through the use of written discovery, including drafting discovery requests and responses, and participating in discovery depositions; 3) drafting substantive motions, pleadings, settlement agreements, and other court filings; and 4) trial/mediation preparation and participation. A legal intern in our office would gain experience in a wide range of employment law areas.

There are approximately 25 attorneys working in the Chicago office, which is located across the street from the Dirksen Federal Courthouse.

Law students can do an externship with the U.S. Department of Labor in Fall, Spring or Summer. To be considered for a Spring or Summer term externship, candidates must 1) have started their 2nd year of law school; 2) demonstrate interest in employment law or public service; 3) demonstrate interest in trial-level litigation; 4) obtain school credit for the externship. The externship is unpaid.

Application materials may be submitted electronically. In your cover letter, specify that the ND Law in Chicago externship requires 32 field-work hours/week for the semester. Send a cover letter, resume, and unofficial transcript to:

Description
In the Chicago office of the U.S. EPA, all the legal externships are with the Office of Regional Counsel (ORC).

The large number of attorneys (about 100) in ORC means exposure to a variety of work and cases. The work includes matters arising under the federal environmental statutes. These are the same statutes often covered in the basic environmental law course, so the externship is a chance to put into practice what the extern has already learned (or is learning). Region 5 also has one of the strongest enforcement records within U.S. EPA; chances are, a Region 5 extern will work on an enforcement case.

Externs perform primarily legal research and writing to support the counseling and enforcement work of the attorneys in the ORC. They estimate that at least 75% of the work will use the extern’s legal skills. Legal research will usually concentrate on case-specific issues. Legal writing may include: legal memos, information requests, dispositive motions, letters responding to Freedom of Information Act requests, and letters responding to correspondence from members of Congress or the public. Externs may also attend negotiations, attend oral arguments, and review agency documents in preparation for litigation.
